

Peer reviews (MVP)

Team Hacktrack: George Ezenna, Kairat Ashim, Eric Manzi, Favyen Bastani

Reviewer: Eric Manzi

George

George did a great job writing all the view code for the app (from viewing projects to profile pages). My only suggestion to him, which applies to all of us equally, is to be more explicit about who's changing what. There was some confusion when he changed a file which Kairat created. He and I met up more frequently than the rest of the group since our schedules lined up. He did most of his part well before the deadline.

Kairat

Kairat worked on the Project model and controller. He was prompt, very resourceful and quite knowledgeable about mongoose and express intricacies. He was very opinionated, which is generally a good thing as it leads to more discussion but when we redesigned our data model, he disagreed with our design which delayed our progress. We eventually went with majority consensus but this would have been avoided if we had consulted with him before making changes.

Favyen

Favyen did a nice job with the posting and commenting functionality. Unfortunately, Favyen was busy on the weekend before the MVP was due and was unreachable. Even though he had told us about this, we did not schedule our time well and we got worried towards the deadline that he would not be able to add his code. Fortunately, he came through before the deadline and submitted his work.
